

CODA AUTOMOTIVE COMPANY OVERVIEW

CODA Automotive is a privately held company headquartered in Southern California that designs, manufactures and sells electric vehicles and lithium-ion battery systems purpose-built for transportation and utility applications. Our vision is to be the key technology provider to reduce global dependence on fossil fuels and the social, economic and environmental destruction that follows. Our team is a group of technology-minded innovators with more than a millennium of automotive experience dedicated to the adoption of electric vehicles.

Since day one, we've focused on developing a safe, affordable battery system and other electric drive components that serve as the foundation for electric vehicles. The culmination of our efforts, the all-electric 2012 CODA sedan, is a four-door, five-passenger vehicle with two mileage range options: a 31 kWh battery option that can go up to 125 miles, and a 36 kWh battery option that can go up to 150 miles on a single charge.

Quality has always been our core focus, so we've backed-up the vehicle with a 10 year/100,000 mile limited battery warranty, a 5 year/60,000 mile limited powertrain warranty, and a 3 year/36,000 mile limited warranty. To build the CODA in an efficient manner, we've partnered with the most highly proficient and advanced companies from around the world, allowing us to bring affordable EV technology to market quickly and efficiently.
